Answer: Preventable

Question 10

Answer: Disappointed

Question 11

Answer: Plentiful

Question 12

Answer: Performance

Question 13

Answer: Transport

Question 14

Answer: Scientists

Question 15

Answer: c) The audience consisted of thirty three-year olds.

Question 16

Answer: c) abstract noun

Question 17

Answer: Cereal

Question 18

Answer: a)

Expanding the contraction is the best way to see which words fit into the sentence. Although we could say "you would be better taking an umbrella", we would never say "you would better take an umbrella" which is what would happen if you expanded the contraction in this case to be "you would". "you had better take an umbrella" sounds much better, and is a better sentence. So in this case "you'd" is a contraction of "you had".

Question 19

Answer: b) a noun

Question 20

Answer: a) April

Question 21

Answer: d) an adjective

Question 22

Answer: d) Jun

As a general rule we change lines whenever we change speakers.

Here we see that Jun asks "What's the matter with him?" and then we change lines to Kai, who makes a strange sound, and then we switch again. We must be switching to either Ping or back to Jun, as they are the only two other participants in the conversation. But which one? There are no words here to tell us which person is speaking now.

Because we are not told, we need to use context to decide. We know two lines later that Ping can translate Kai's words, and she does, explaining to Jun what Kai had said.

From this we can infer that Jun is asking what Kai said. Although we are not told directly, context tells us that Ping would not need to ask what Kai is saying, so it must be Jun who asks "What did he say?"

Question 23

Answer: d) you would

Question 24

Answer: b) 'Help I'm going to fall!' cried Peter.

Question 25

Answer: b) 'What shall we play,' asked Jack, 'Monopoly or Cluedo?'

We put speech marks at the start and end of everything that is said, but never around words that are not said. In this sentence, Jack says two things: What shall we play and Monopoly or Cluedo, so both those bits need to have speech marks around them. He doesn't say asked Jack, so those words should not have speech marks around them.

Question 26

Answer: c) The children waited; the tiger slowly moved past them.

Question 27

Answer: b) 'Where do astronauts leave their spaceships?' asked Pete. 'At parking meteors!' replied Matt.

Question 28

Answer: nostradamus

Question 29

Answer: d) so

We know the children were cold, and we know Ranger Bob lit a fire, so the question is this: how are these two things related?

It makes sense that the Ranger lit the fire so that the children would stop being cold, since fire warms people up. The conjunction 'so' tells us this: The children were cold, so Ranger Bob lit a fire to help them warm up.

Question 30

Answer: Sauce

Question 31

Answer: his

Question 32

Answer

a) They erected a plaque in the garden in memory of the soldiers who had died in the war.

Question 33

Answer: d) with which

Question 34

Answer: c) between

The correct option is: between.

The best results occurred between 2006 and 2008.

Question 35

Answer: a) The correct answer is: Come here and look at these pencils.

Question 36

Answer: b) The ellipsis (...) is the correct answer. One of its uses is to indicate a pause in the flow of a sentence. It is especially effective when used in quoted speech because it shows that the speaker has paused.

Question 37

Answer: d) Should have

The correct answer is: 'should have'. Did you get that one? People commonly use 'should of' by mistake, which is incorrect.

Question 38

Answer: c) "Do you know the answer, Millie?" asked Con. is the correct answer. It was Con who asked Millie the question, and the direct speech is shown with the speech marks.

Question 39

Answer: c) I've is the correct answer. It is the contraction of I have.

Question 40

Answer: piece

Peace is used to refer to quiet or calm.

A piece of something is a portion of something. The word piece has pie in it, so a good way to remember this is by thinking of a piece of pie.

Question 41

Answer: a) The correct response is:

The teacher's comments yesterday, about how best to study for the examination, were interesting.

because the verb "were" is both past tense and plural.

Question 42

Answer: too

Question 43

Answer: c) Upon

Question 44

Answer: d) "Quietly," he said, "or they'll hear us." is the correct answer.

He said is not a part of the speech, so the speech marks are needed after quietly and before or.

Question 45

Answer: a) Mr Brown yelled, "Don't even think of leaving until the mess is cleaned up!" is the correct answer. The quoted speech needs to be capitalised at the beginning of the speech (e.g. Don't). The exclamation mark goes after the exclamation. What he said is the exclamation; the fact that Mr Brown yelled is not. The speech marks are immediately before and after the quoted speech.

Question 46

Answer: c) They will not is the correct answer.

Question 47

Answer: c) The correct answer is with.

Question 48

Answer: d) The dash (-) can be used to show a list that already contains commas in the middle of a sentence.

Question 49

Answer: c) The teacher said we must finish the essay by Friday at the latest. is the correct answer because it is the only answer that accurately retells what the teacher said.

Question 50

Answer: a) The correct answer is: Sadly, he asked, "Have you seen Delwyn?"

We place a comma after an adverb at the beginning of a sentence, and we also place a comma before opening the speech marks. The question within the speech marks must start with a capital letter.

Question 51

Answer: c) ... my favourite is Hamlet.

The correct answer is... is!

Question 52

Answer: d) The correct option is: for which.

Dad showed me a method to use with algebra, for which I am extremely grateful.

Question 53

Answer: c) The correct answer is: The examination is tomorrow; its questions will be multiple choice and it's in the Science laboratory.

The first "its" is a possessive pronoun, referring to the examination. The second "it's" is a contraction of "it is".

Question 54

Answer: a) "I am studying with Millie this afternoon," said Stella. is the correct answer.

It was Stella who spoke and said she was studying with Millie. The speech marks are placed immediately before and after the quoted speech.
