EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In our daily coverage of the senior living industry, we've come across many innovations in dining — a major cornerstone of the senior living experience.

We took those findings and launched two surveys to learn more about both operators' plans around dining, and consumer perceptions around what it should, and must, include.

This report is a comprehensive look into those survey results as well as an in-depth examination of how the top providers today are doing dining. We've compiled dozens of data points to capture this important aspect of the industry.

With insight gathered from those data points, as well as numerous industry interviews, the Senior Living Dining Evolution Report highlights opportunities for senior living providers to improve their approach to dining so that they are better positioned in the competitive landscape. It discusses what leaders are doing to establish, improve and market the dining experience to best serve their senior residents.
