On-Demand Registration Tracking From Start to Finish

For college students, course registration is a high stakes activity. Enrolling in the right classes, at the right time, can mean the difference between staying on time to degree completion, or falling off track.

During registration, wouldn't it be nice to know how your sections are filling so you can respond to student need? With Monitor, you can do just that – equip yourself with the insights to know whether to add or cancel sections.

Monitor

Registration is open and excitement is in the air. Students are enrolling, but do you know how your courses are filling? Without visibility into the registration data, it's almost impossible to prepare and respond to student need. Monitor not only gives visibility but allows you to be notified when courses are nearly full or still struggling to get enrollments. Ace your next registration process by ensuring you have all the information you need to tailor your schedule during enrollment.

INCREASED VISIBILITY

Track how quickly courses are filling to help you understand how to adjust your offerings during the registration process to meet your students' needs without wasting resources on unneeded sections

CONVENIENT ACCESS

- View registration data easily available with clear visualizations
- Drill into specific courses to learn how sections are filling

THRESHOLD MONITORING

Track courses above and below certain enrollment ratio thresholds to help you understand which courses need attention

NOTIFICATIONS

- Select specific courses for which to receive notifications
- Be notified when courses have reached high enrollment
- Comment and tag contributors, who will then receive a notification, within Monitor
