- ✓ Direct relationship with OET directors and Education Team: ran successful OET pilot training programmes for overseas nurses on OET's behalf in the UK

OET and IELTS

Nursing regulatory bodies around the English-speaking world require overseas-trained nurses to pass OET or IELTS to register as a nurse.

OET and IELTS are international English language tests with four parts - Listening, Reading, Writing and Speaking. Nurses need a high score to demonstrate they can give safe and effective care in English.

OET

OET is a test of English for Healthcare.

Candidates listen to patient consultations. workplace conversations and medical talks; read a range of healthcare-related texts; write a referral letter; and participate in role plays as a nurse.

OET is scored from A (best) to E. In most countries, including the UK and Australia, nurses need to score a B grade in all four papers.

IELTS

IELTS is a test of Academic English.

Candidates listen to conversations in everyday and education settings as well as an academic lecture; answer questions on a range of academic texts; write a data report and an academic essay; give a presentation and answer questions on both familiar and abstract subjects.

IELTS is scored from 9.0 (best) to 0. In most countries, nurses need 6.5 or 7.0 in the four papers. In the UK for example, nurses need 7.0 in Listening, Reading and Speaking and a 6.5 in Writing.

What the scores mean

The OET and IELTS scores required are similar to each other in terms of language level. They represent an advanced or 'C1' level as measured by the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR). The CEFR is an international standard used around the world to describe language competence.

At a C1 level, you can express yourself accurately with complex grammar and vocabulary, understand a wide range of high-level language, and use language effectively in social, academic and professional situations.

To achieve a C1 level in another language requires many hours of training and practice.

Preparing to pass OET and IELTS

Seven factors for success

1. Accurate assessment of starting level

At SLC, we test nurses before they start OET or IELTS training in the four skills. The results enable us to recommend

- a. Course duration
- b. Materials
- c. Blend between tutoring and homework
- d. Streaming of classes where appropriate

Courses are tailored to specific needs and levels and have inbuilt flexibility to evolve as nurses make progress.

2. Expert teachers

All SLC teachers are highly experienced, qualified English language teaching professionals who specialise in exam preparation.

All OET teachers undergo initial and ongoing training as part of SLC's OET Premium Preparation Provider accreditation. We work directly with the OET academic team in Melbourne and Cambridge on quality assurance issues.

Virginia Allum Bethan Edwards

Jo Langford

Annelie Phillips Jane McKinney

Our IELTS trainers include examiners, materials writers and teacher trainers. Virginia Allum, SLC's Head of Medical English, has co-authored OET preparation materials for OET and Cambridge University Press, as well as the internationally renowned Cambridge English for Nursing textbooks.

3. Attendance

Attending classes is vital with results dipping when attendance falls below 90%. We address absence immediately in partnership with employers.

4. Homework completion

What learners do outside the class has a direct correlation with their test results. Homework enables learners to consolidate and extend classroom learning, fill in learning gaps, and bridge between lessons.

5. Targeted materials

There is a dearth of OET materials on the one hand and a glut of IELTS materials on the other. The ability of teachers to create, select and manage learners' study materials is vital to focusing learning on what matters most and what will make the biggest difference to test results.

6. Employer partnership

Working in partnership with employers keeps nurses focused on learning. Absences, disruptions and slow progress are followed up on guickly and effectively. Schedules are set around workforce logistics. Reporting is built around an employer's needs.

7. Detailed management information

Organisations receive detailed weekly updates, consisting of attendance, homework completion and teacher comments. Mock tests and learner feedback are reported at strategic points. Review calls are scheduled to discuss progress, mock test results, potential issues and action plans where appropriate. Employers can therefore see and discuss the progress their candidates are making at any point throughout a course.

OET Speaking Course

On OET preparation courses, ward managers support nurses with the unique OET Speaking Course, developed by SLC with Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge, so blended classroom learning with ward-based practice.

> Cambridge University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust

We use online classrooms to give lessons. SLC's excellent teachers work with students wherever they are, from the UK to India to the Philippines. Schedules are flexible and organised around shifts and time zones. Learners simply login, saving time and travel costs. Lessons are given on Zoom, award-winning classroom software used by thousands of universities and teaching organisations around the world.

We publish OET, IELTS and Medical English courses online. We deliver assessments and practice tests online. All content is hosted on cutting edge learning management software, delivering great learner experience. Scores and progress are tracked and reported. Courses can be branded, customised and commissioned.

We understand not everybody loves technology as much as we do, so we provide dedicated and free technical support for all our learners.

What our clients say

"ABUHB has been extremely pleased with the English language tuition service provided by SLC. It has, in its entirety, met the requirements of the contract procured in a cohesive way."

Dr. Lyn Middleton, Associate Director of Nursing, Aneurin Bevan University Health Board

"Working in close partnership with SLC, our EU nurses at Cambridge (Addenbrookes hospital) benefit from the professional teaching, curriculum development, knowledge and individual care of tutors at SLC. The tutors care about the EU nurses meeting their potential. The nurses tell us that they have good working relationships with their tutors, who help them to identify their learning needs, and then support them to achieve their English qualification as evidenced by the significant increases in our pass rates."

Bronwyn Ramsay, Clinical Education Facilitator- Operational EU Lead, Addenbrooke's Hospital Cambridge

"We were delighted with the results achieved through SLC for our candidates undertaking the OET... We would recommend this training programme to all our hospital partners."

Michael Joyce, Divisional Manager, King's Commercial, part of King's College Hospital NHS Foundation Trust
