Federal:

Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) – Small Dollar Rule

On October 5, 2017, the CFPB published its final rule that will set new rules and restrictions on payday loans, auto title loans, deposit advance products, and certain installment and open-end loans. The rule will cover any short-term loans with a term of 45 days or less and certain long-term loans with terms of more than 45 days. The proposed rule will only cover long-term loans that (1) have a greater than 36% “all-in APR” (2) where the lender either (a) secures the loan by holding a vehicle as collateral or (b) collects payment using a form of “leveraged payment mechanism” that gives lenders the right to initiate transfers from a consumer’s account or to obtain payment through payroll deduction or other direct access to the consumer's paycheck. The rule excludes from coverage purchase-money credit secured solely by the vehicle or other consumer goods purchased, real property or dwelling-secured credit if the lien is recorded or perfected, credit cards, student loans, non-recourse pawn loans, overdraft services and overdraft lines of credit and credit sales contracts. The rule requires that lenders perform a "full payments test", which requires a lender to determine affordability and requirements for justifying additional loans. Among other things, lenders dealing in covered loans will also be required to use credit reporting systems to report and obtain information about covered loans and consumers.

Effective Date: The CFPB released its final small-dollar loan rule on October 5, 2017. The rule takes effect 21 months after it is published in the Federal Register, although the provisions that allow for registration of information systems take effect earlier.
