Anchorage Mat-Su Community Plan

Great care with low costs

It pays to stay in network

Getting the right care — at the right price — is important to your whole health. That's why we made it easy for you to get the care you need at lower costs. Whether you go to doctors, hospitals or other health care facilities in your plan's network, you pay less.

Since 1994, the Pacific Health Coalition (PHC) has worked with area hospitals and other providers to help make health care more affordable. By joining forces with PHC, we can pass those savings on to you. The Anchorage Mat-Su Community Plan network encourages use of providers that offer discounts. This lowers your out-of-pocket costs as long as you stay in network.

Stay in network to make the most of your plan

Enjoy more savings when you choose providers and facilities in the Anchorage Mat-Su Community Plan.

You've got options

Know where to go

Our network gives you plenty of options for care. In the shaded box to the right, you can find some of the facilities and groups in your plan's network. You also have access to all the providers included in Aetna's broad PPO network. Going to these providers could help you save money.

Visit your member website or call the number on your ID card to check which doctors, hospitals and facilities are in your network.

About Alaska Regional Hospital

Alaska Regional Hospital has been fulfilling the medical needs of Alaskans and its visitors since 1963.¹

Now recognized as a 5-star hospital by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services,² Alaska Regional has a solid track record of delivering high-quality, nationally recognized care.³

Remember, going out of network for care could cost you a lot more money.
That's why it pays to stay in network.
