

CHILLER

Chiller finish utilizes phase change materials (PCM) that absorb, store and release heat for optimal thermal comfort.

Chiller finish technology is not wicking technology, which manages moisture by reacting to your sweat and pulling it away from the skin. Chiller technology will proactively manage heat while controlling the production of moisture before it begins.

COOL