The Ultimate Pet Stain Removal Guide

When it comes to pets, there are a few common cleaning issues that go hand in hand. No need to panic - we've got the solutions to your pet-stain related qualms.

Urine

When toilet training your pets, there's likely to be a few accidents that happen along the way. Pet pee can contain all sorts of chemicals, water and waste, which can leave behind a nasty stain on your carpet.

- Use Stain Remover: gently blot with clean paper towels towards the centre of the stain.
- Act quickly! Urine is highly acidic and will bleach some carpets. Once bleaching occurs this cannot be corrected with stain removing products.

Vomit

If your pet has eaten something disagreeable, you may be confronted with the odor and stain of vomit on your carpet.

- Use both Stain Remover and Odour Remover: remove the visible stain with the stain remover, then eliminate the smell by spraying Odour Remover onto the stain.

Mud

Pets love playing outside, and with this comes the possibility of muddy pawprints trudged throughout your home.

- Use Spot Remover: apply to specific affected area.

Odours

Particularly with cat urine, the strong scent of feline pheromones (glandular secretions contained in the urine to mark the cat's territory) is difficult to permanently eliminate.

- Use Odour Remover to follow up cleaning: attacks odour at its source, by deodorising, disinfecting and killing germs.

Furry FAQs

Does Rug Doctor work on pet stains?

Yes! Absolutely. Using the right rug doctor product (or combination of products) depending on the type of pet stain will leave your carpet clean and odourless.

Is Rug Doctor safe to use around pets?

Yes! We recommend you keep your pets away from the cleaning area until your carpet has completely dried, but our products are non-toxic and safe to use when pets are a part of your family.

How often should I use Rug Doctor if I have pets?

If you have animals it is recommended that you clean your carpets and upholstery every 6-12 months.
