Appalachian Log Structures Celebrates its 40th Anniversary

Delivers #4,000 precut log home package

Ripley, WV, January 12, 2018 – Locally owned Appalachian Log Structures, a manufacturer of log home building materials and packages, announced it is celebrating its 40th Anniversary. Delivering over 4000 manufactured precut log home packages nationally and internationally, the company specializes in custom designing log homes, cabins, and commercial structures for customers looking for the unique and eco-friendly environment of wood. Exposed log walls, soaring beamed ceilings, and expansive timber framed porches all add to what customers describe as the “warmth and coziness” of log home living.

“The ambience of a log home is a dramatic departure from the average stick-built house.” stated Douglas Parsons, President of Appalachian Log Structures. “The evolution of energy efficient building components, Appalachian’s pressure treating process, combined with the distinctive attributes of wood as a natural insulator, makes today’s modern log home highly desirable.”

With seven different profiles and corner notches available in a full 6” or 8” thickness the possibilities for customization are endless. Appalachian offers over 75 predesigned floor plans ranging from 500 to 3700 square feet to jump start the design process. The company also hosts several plant tour and log home workshops to educate log home enthusiasts and builders about the design process, financing, and other steps required for a successful building project. Highly trained and experienced Sales Consultants are available for appointments in Ripley, WV as well as a network of Independent Representatives in over 10 states.
