

Case Study

KIPP: Columbus

Columbus, Ohio - KIPP: Columbus, a K-8 college-preparatory public school, works to help students in underserved communities prepare the pathway to higher education. Through their space, a learner-centered community was developed with products in mind to better reflect 21st century learning processes.

Results

- Created a new learning space that accounts for the change in 21st century teaching styles
- Environment promotes student collaboration while supporting independent study
- Airy, bright colors and natural lighting creates engaging space
- Technology for student-learning is easily accessible

