Burnham is Los Angeles' Expert in Permit Management

Burnham Nationwide is the premier specialist in facilitating permits for the Greater Los Angeles Area. Operating in Southern California for over a decade, Burnham has worked on most of the large-scale developments and skyscrapers in downtown Los Angeles and surrounding areas.

We take ownership of your project whether an entirely new, complex office tower going through the Parallel Design-Permitting Process or a smaller commercial or residential building remodel requiring Counter Plan Check.

Our highly skilled project managers have expertise in all phases of the permit process, and the same project manager works with you through the entire life of the project.

Our proactive and systematic approach, developed through decades of experience, expedites the entire permit process.

We leverage our knowledge of California and municipal building codes, as well as other relevant requirements, to conduct plan reviews and advise you on your project.

We take charge of securing all the necessary approvals required for permit issuance to make sure your project stays on schedule and within your budget.

Our wide-ranging services include assistance with licenses and discrete permits, such as historic preservation approvals, noise variance permits, contractor licensing, peak hour exemptions, and traffic approvals.

Burnham pioneered the use of phased building permits in Los Angeles as part of our endeavor to always develop effective and efficient strategies for any project.

We enable all project team members to do their job better and are always available for communication on your project, whether it's over the phone, email, or in person.
