

THE LANE LAW FIRM
TEXAS ATTORNEYS AT LAW

We know that you consider the work we are doing for you “essential” during this period. We want to reassure you that we share the same philosophy. Now is no time to take a break from the zealous representation you have come to know from us.

Our office will remain open and our staff remains committed to working hard on your behalf as we fight the virus and your bank or insurance company. The banks/lenders and insurance companies that we battle on a daily basis are staying in the fight. As long as they stay in the fight we will too, otherwise your position will be compromised.

Long before this lock down began, we invested significantly in hardware and software for computers and phones so our employees are able to work remotely just as effectively as at their desk. While we remain committed to keeping a minimum staff at the office so we can maintain a continuity of service we ask that you stay home and call rather than come in. We’d love to have a video chat. If you must come in for whatever reason we will be here.

The small businesses and families we represent need our help right now more than ever fighting off your lenders, landlords and cash advance loan sharks as well as continuing to hold insurance companies accountable for fair and reasonable payouts. If you know someone in need, spread the word.

Thank you for your continued trust.
