Nothing is ultimately effective without healthy human connection. The dark side of the same truth is that hurt people hurt people. We can move towards deeper understanding of and attunement to the path that has brought folks to need our help and be agents of alliance in healing and progress. But won't that connection/ alliance come at great cost? Do we run the risk of watching our passion fade and losing track of the purpose in our work? Or, is there a mindful path we can create that will both renew us and sustain us in our work?

Judge Floerke will share a vision of an integrated understanding of addiction, recovery, alliance, and mindful practice. Explore real-world strategies for effective living AND effective work practice to nourish ourselves and to hone and strengthen ourselves and our teams.

Learning Objectives:

- Specify, recognize, and honor the complexity of addiction, trauma, childhood experiences and brain research as it relates to our clients and ourselves, our failings and our victories.
- Review, explore and celebrate what we bring to our work as therapeutic, enforcement, legal and healing professionals.
- Examine and implement concrete strategies for our own nourishment and renewal with a mind to thriving in our lives and our work.
