TRIP INFORMATION

Activity Level

These trips do require a certain level of mobility, including stairs and some uphill terrain to reach palaces and temples, sometimes walking on rocky, and uneven terrain, and the ability to get in and out of vehicles that require big steps. Most Indian sites and monuments are rated at moderate difficulty or higher. There is usually little to no assistance for the disabled/handicapped traveler. Thresholds are usually raised and there are many uneven steps and pathways. Your guide can usually let you know at the start of the day what to expect in terms of the number of steps/stairs and amount of walking required.

We regret that wheel chairs cannot be accommodated on this trip. All guests must be ambulatory and able to walk long distances from 1 mile to up to 3 to 5 miles in a day without assistance. If you do have limited mobility that requires assistance, you are required to travel with someone who can assist you, and you may not be able to fully participate in all the activities.
