

Strategic Solutions for Parents as Teachers

Video Topic Markers

Time	Topic
Start	Rick (Birth2Work Co-founder) sets the stage and each member of the team introduces themselves including specific background about their family situation.
5:05	Somer (with 3-year-old son) shares how she approaches education for her son and the activities she uses to help her husband be engaged with their son.
8:00	Carolyn (with 2nd and 6th grader) shares a real-life approach on how to deal with the massive number of worksheets that teachers are sending home, how she worked with her 2nd grader daughter's teacher, and creating games that help teach curriculum in a fun way.
11:00	Tamie (master teacher) talks about the importance of parents understanding their child's learning style.
12:30	Elane (Birth2Work Co-founder) provides advice to parents regarding kids and what they want to learn.
16:20	Somer walks through specific example of things she learned about herself and how that enabled her and her husband to align on a new routine.
19:00	Carolyn shares specific examples of what her daughters were doing that day and new approaches to make learning fun.
25:00	Tamie talks about the importance of structure and routine when it comes to helping children learn and strengthen their emotional health.
26:15	Elane shares a real example of how children want to have order and structure.
28:15	Tamie responds to what school might look like when it reopens.
33:48	Somer offers advice to parents with young children.
35:44	Carolyn offers advice to parents with children in elementary school and preparing for middle school/junior high school.
37:47	Tamie offers advice as a master teacher and grandparent.
38:39	Elane gives perspective and advice as Birth2Work Co-founder, parent, and grandparent.

