

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

CORROTHERM INTERNATIONAL recognises that the discipline of effective Environmental management is an integral part of its management function. The Organisation views this as a primary responsibility with regard to the environmental impact of our activities, products and services.

In order to meet these requirements, we have implemented an Integrated Management System to meet the requirements of ISO 14001:2004.

The Organisation Environmental policy calls for continual improvement and periodic review in our Environmental management activities, and our business will be conducted according to the following principles:

This policy provides a framework for establishing and reviewing the following environmental objectives:-

- Manage and reduce our impact on the environment
- Follow a concept of continual improvement and commit to the prevention of pollution
- Comply with all applicable legal and other requirements to which the company subscribes which relate to our identified environmental aspects
- Communicate our environmental objectives targets and our performance against these throughout the Organisation and to interested parties
- Ensure that employees and others working under our control are aware of their own individual Environmental obligations by communication of this policy
- That this policy is available to the public as requested.
