

American Crane sponsors "Diary of a Nuclear Tourist"

American Crane and Equipment Corporation sponsors Suzy Hobbs Baker, of the Nuclear Literacy Project and PopAtomic Studios. Suzy will be traveling throughout Europe in February and March of 2013, touring nuclear sites and reporting on her experiences on the Nuclear Literacy Project's website, as well as Twitter and Facebook.

Douglassville, PA (PRWEB) February 24, 2013 -- American Crane and Equipment Corporation sponsors Suzy Hobbs Baker (through the Nuclear Literacy Project) on a tour of the nuclear facilities in Europe. Suzy is a nuclear energy advocate and serves as the executive director of PopAtomic Studios: an independent non-profit organization that uses the power of visual and liberal arts to enrich public discussion on atomic energy and how it affects our daily lives. Her tour was launched through the Nuclear Literacy Project, created in 2012 by PopAtomic Studios. The Nuclear Literacy Project aims to demystify nuclear technologies, as well as to learn how nuclear energy affects our daily lives.

You can follow Suzy's journey by clicking the "Diary of a Nuclear Tourist" tab on the Nuclear Literacy Project's website. Her visits will include Karlsruhe Institute of Technology in Germany, the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria, the European Nuclear Society's Conference for Nuclear Communicators in Switzerland, and more! With her tour and through her diary communication, Susie hopes to expand the dialogue on energy issues, exploring why nuclear technologies have flourished in some cultures, while being dismissed by others.
