1 Background

Modern Slavery is a term used to encapsulate both offences in the Modern Slavery Act: slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labour; and human trafficking.

Definitions:

Slavery, in accordance with the 1926 Slavery Convention, is the status or condition of a person over whom all or any of the powers attaching to the right of ownership are exercised. Since legal 'ownership' of a person is not possible, the key element of slavery is the behaviour on the part of the offender as if he/ she did own the person, which deprives the victim of their freedom.

Servitude is the obligation to provide services that is imposed by the use of coercion and includes the obligation for a 'serf' to live on another person's property and the impossibility of changing his or her condition.

Forced or compulsory labour is defined in international law by the coercion, either direct threats of violence or more subtle forms of compulsion. The key elements are that work or service is exacted from any person under the menace of any penalty and for which the person has not offered him/herself voluntarily.

Human Trafficking requires that a person arranges or facilitates the travel of another person with a view to that person being exploited. The offence can be committed even where the victim consents to the travel. This reflects the fact that a victim may be deceived by the promise of a better life or job or may be a child who is influenced to travel by an adult. In addition, the exploitation of the potential victim does not need to have taken place for the offence to be committed. It means that the arranging or facilitating of the movement of the individual was with a view to exploiting them for sexual exploitation or non-sexual exploitation.

1.1 Modern Slavery Act 2015

The introduction of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 requires EDM Group Ltd to be transparent about what they are doing in respect of the welfare and wellbeing of its employees and those working on its behalf.

By promoting equality throughout the organisation beginning at the point of recruitment and by increasing supply chain accountability, more workers will be protected and consumers will have greater confidence in the goods and services they buy.

The act defines a commercial organisation must prepare a slavery and human trafficking statement for each financial year of the organisation if it supplies goods and services and has a total annual turnover of not less than an amount prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State, currently £36m.

2 EDM's Policy Statement

The following statement describes the steps EDM Group will take during the current financial year 1st April 2018 to 31 March 2019 to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place and refers specifically to the UK business. To ensure that servitude or forced or compulsory labour is not practised within the business. The statement will reference EDM Group's policies and documents where necessary to support the statement. It outlines EDM Group's recruitment and employment standards, Equal Opportunity policy, Code of Conduct at Work and the Supply Chain approval and review process. EDM Group aims are to provide transparency in this area and are committed to providing a continued annual statement for the financial year.

EDM Group confirm adherence to all local and relevant legislation and regulations and will regularly review the policy statement to ensure continued compliance.

2.2 Suppliers and Contractors

EDM have a documented process for the sourcing and approval of third party suppliers to the organisation. EDM hold an Approved Supplier Register which documents all third party suppliers to the business. The supplier review process is completed on a 3 year cycle and follows the same format as initial approval. Supplier service review may take place more regularly.

As part of the process EDM issue a questionnaire for completion by the supplier to confirm their standards and compliance in quality, environmental aspects, health and safety, information security, equal opportunities, recruitment and evidence of business insurance protection.

EDM require supplier and contractor procedures, method statements and systems of work. There are documented contracts held which are also reviewed at regular intervals.
