Latest Round of User-Requested Enhancements Completed

SimpleLaw, a legal technology provider of case and practice management software that delivers efficiency to attorneys and peace of mind to their clients, announced today that it has completed their latest round of user-requested enhancements.

SimpleLaw enhanced efficiency for attorneys and clients in three key areas:

- A new text-to-platform feature, where attorneys can securely respond to questions posed by potential clients on the platform, right from their mobile device,
- A custom Android app built to keep attorneys productive, wherever they are, and
- Integration with leading accounting software

These enhancements add to the unique benefits of SimpleLaw. Clients and attorneys connect on the same platform where cases and the practice are managed. As a result, redundant case intake is eliminated. In addition, SimpleLaw uniquely offers attorneys who use the platform access to on-demand vetted paralegal services, along with all the features attorneys need to manage cases. Clients have access to a secure private portal, so they can quickly and easily upload documents, see the status of their case, and connect with their attorney.

“Because SimpleLaw is founded by attorneys,” said Praveen Medikundam, Esq., co-founder of SimpleLaw and an active attorney. “We uniquely know what attorneys and clients need. Our goal has been and continues to be to leverage technology to efficiently and effectively resolve legal matters. After all, that's what our clients hire us to do. And that means happier clients, a growing and more profitable practice, and giving attorneys more time to practice the law.”

SimpleLaw remains committed to fulfilling the needs of its users and is already working on the next round of enhancements.
