SCORING AND COACHING

The SDR team at Outreach borrows their framework from the book "The 4 Disciplines of Execution." Ambition is the tool they leverage to be their compelling scoreboard.

The Challenge:

The Outreach Sales Development team needed to evaluate their sales tech stack to help them execute on a new sales coaching framework they kicked off in 2020. Outreach leaned into "The Four Disciplines of Execution" by Chris McChesney to be the blueprint for how the sales organization wanted to achieve their sales goals. They needed to fulfill the disciplines of keeping a compelling scoreboard and creating a cadence of accountability.

The Solution:

Brooke Bachesta, Sales Development Representative Manager at Outreach needed to create a set of metrics and benchmarks that she could dynamically score and coach her team around. She needed her KPIs to be visible in order to fulfill the discipline of "keep a compelling scoreboard." Brooke identified Ambition as the solution to her scoring needs. Another discipline essential to the new framework was centered around creating a "cadence of accountability." Brooke knew she needed to coach her team in 1:1 formats that lean very heavily into call coaching methodology. By embedding Chorus data into Ambition, Brooke could utilize gamification of Ambition scoring and conversation intelligence of Chorus into one place to more easily execute on the 4 disciplines.

BENCHMARKS

How Outreach uses Ambition to dynamically update their SDR scorecard

SDR Activity Numbers

19 Contacts sequenced per day

85 Outbound dials per day

SDR Objective Numbers

25 Meetings set per month

12 Sales qualified leads per month

9 Sales accepted leads per month

Quote:

“Outreach relies on Ambition to be our compelling, visible scoreboard. The scorecards and leaderboards help with the every day coaching outside of our weekly Chorus call coaching sessions .”

DEVELOPMENT REPRESENTATIVE
MANAGER, OUTREACH

HOW THEY DID IT

The Scorecard setup:

The metrics that the SDR team identified for leading and lagging metrics of success are as follows:

ACTIVITY

- Outbound Dials - weighted for 60% of the score
 - Each SDR strives for 85 outbound dials a day
- Contacts Sequenced- weighted for 40% of the score
 - Each SDR strives for 19 new contacts sequenced each day

OBJECTIVE

- Initial Meeting Scheduled- weighted for 50% of the score
 - Each SDR strives for 25 meetings per month
- Sales Qualified Lead- weighted for 25% of the score
 - Each SDR strives for 12 SQLs per month
- Sales Accept Lead- weighted for 25% of the score
 - Each SDR strives for 9 SALs per month

The Coaching and Leaderboard Setup:

- Weekly call coaching and sequence reviews powered by Chorus and Outreach data
 - Focus on what is being said on the connected call recordings and how that is successfully converting to the objective benchmarks
- Weekly, cross-team role play
 - High-converting peers can be matched up with those lower on the leaderboard for peer to peer role play
- Weekly, company-wide product training
- Leaderboards are broadcast on sales floor TVs for all of the scorecard metrics
- Leaderboards are broadcast for conversion metrics for how the dials and sequences are converting as well as conversions of the meetings further down the funnel into qualified leads

PRO TIP:

Keeping a leaderboard and coaching around conversion rate metrics like percentage of Meetings Set converting to Sales Qualified Leads helps ensure that your team is setting quality meetings.

CONCLUSION

Quote:

“For us, the developmental style of coaching felt forced. When we realized that data-based coaching centered on improving conversion rates was sparking excitement on our team, we embraced that. The Ambition and Chorus integration makes it easy for us to coach our way and fits perfectly with our 4 Disciplines framework.”
