

Leadership

"If you're a marketplace like us, you have to ask: 'Do we have to be greedy and take an insane margin?' No, you don't. You say: At scale we'll be a company worth $100 billion, and what you do with the leftover efficiency is you pass on savings to the customer and pay more to partner carriers."

Aaron Peck

"At Mothership, we accept the responsibility of shaping the world. There are people who let the world happen to them and those who take the responsibility of making it a better place. We wake up every day passionate about our mission and excited to make an impact."
