

Team Culture Workshop for Managers

Creating a vibrant and connected workplace culture

Exceptional Teams have connected communities where people feel they are known and valued members of the team. They establish emotional connections towards the team purpose and objectives and are clear about the expectations of behaviour and performance. People are held accountable to these expectations and supported and empowered to live up to them.

As the person with the biggest impact upon culture in a team, it's imperative that a team leader is able to create and sustain a positive and productive team environment. This workshop will show you how.

Participants will learn how to:

- Develop symbols, traditions and rituals that connect people to your purpose and make them feel part of the community.
- Develop a code of cultural expectations that highlights 'the way we do things around here'.
- Create processes to ensure that people are accountable to cultural expectations of behaviour and performance.
- Encourage and enable a mutually supportive environment where people reach out to help each other.
