

Get ahead of costly delays before they start

Delays during entitlement cost an average of $82,000/month

86% of coUrbanize customers get their approvals on time

Why coUrbanize?

In-person community meetings often draw a small number of vocal community members, leaving the silent supporters unheard and unable to help move projects forward.

coUrbanize solves this problem by delivering an efficient, easy-to-use online platform that encourages silent supporters to engage and be heard, giving your development project new levels of support.

The result: on-time approvals and significant cost savings.

Start the conversation. Reduce the delays.

With coUrbanize, it's easy to get a constructive conversation started—anytime, anywhere. Once you launch your project, community members will begin to connect and we'll moderate their questions. You'll spend up to 30 minutes a week to answer and communicate your vision, facts and other information. It's as easy as:

- Connecting with silent supporters in a real-name forum moderated by coUrbanize
- Communicating your vision with messaging tools you control
- Reporting automatically on outreach data that folds into the public record

“

We really wanted to find new opportunities to access community members who couldn't show up at board hearings and wait six hours to testify.

ANDREW VAN HORN, EVP JBG SMITH

coUrbanize has accelerated project timelines for nearly 400 real estate and planning projects across North America. Want to make yours next?

Get in touch: sales@courbanize.com | Visit: courbanize.com