El Camino Health Launches Agathos to Engage Physicians and Reduce Clinical Variation

San Francisco, CA – El Camino Health has selected Agathos to support clinical variation reduction as part of its quality and patient experience improvement efforts. In a six-month pilot using the Agathos' mobile-enabled platform, El Camino hospitalists directly accessed clinical insights on utilization, quality, and length of stay to achieve quality improvement targets.

"El Camino Health has a long-standing commitment to quality improvement, innovation, and physician partnership," said Andrew Trees, CEO of Agathos. "We are honored to be entrusted by the leadership team to serve as a communication conduit with attending hospitalists, and further empower quality improvement and patient-centered care."

Following the Agathos platform's deployment, El Camino Health has seen:

- Over 85% usership by physician users
- Reduced use of redundant/unnecessary diagnostic tests
- Reduced use of telemetry, leading to increased patient comfort and satisfaction
- Decreased discharge delays for patients waiting to leave the hospital

"Hospitalists play an important role in our quality and safety strategic plan," said Dr. Mark Adams, chief medical officer of El Camino Health's hospitals. "Empowering physicians with timely clinical data helps in our efforts to provide high-quality personalized care to our patients and community."

The Agathos approach is to offer actionable data directly to the physician, without intervention from management or disruption of the physician's natural workflow. Building on the pilot's success, the platform will now be available to all El Camino Health hospitalists.

ABOUT AGATHOS

Agathos is the transparency platform, by physicians for physicians, giving superior feedback on practice variation. We partner with health systems—maximizing the benefits of technology investments already made—to empower each physician toward ever-higher quality, cost stewardship, and organizational alignment.
