

MICHELS®

Everyone on a project site needs to make sure everyone else is safe. Safety people provide even more help and answer everyone's questions. They make sure the construction crews know how to make the project sites safe for everyone, not just the workers. They make sure those who live, work and drive near the site are safe too. They do that by putting up signs, setting out orange fences and cones, and holding up signs to tell people where, when and how fast to drive.
