Communications are stored in one location in the cloud and only accessible to those people you share them with. And, you decide what to share and with whom from a sub-folder and different permission levels.

Stay current on inventory. Create folders specific to product-type, vendor, and location so that everyone who needs that information has it with the click of a mouse. And, share up-to-date documentation, coupons, and promotions with without having to rely on email or FTP sites.

Keep product information readily available. Take SmartBox with you to each retail location and have files available and accessible whenever you need them on the device to which you choose to sync.

Communicate with ease. Weekly meetings – web and video – are easily launched between geographically separated locations. With SmartBox, you can share your desktop and invite vendors to participate simply by sending them a link. Easily share time-sensitive communications from headquarters with the click of a button.

Secure and confidential access. You control who has access to sensitive and proprietary documents – sales, marketing, locations, by setting up password protection and global or individual notifications.
