

DelCor Office Move Support

Let us take the stress out of your move.

As workspace needs evolve and many organizations embrace a work-from-home culture in a smaller office, we're ready to help you move your phones, internet, servers, computers, conference technology, and network infrastructure.

STRATEGY AND PLANNING

We start with requirements gathering and an infrastructure assessment, then meet with you to determine what you have and what you need. While we will work with your time restrictions, we hope to get at least six months to prepare for your move with you and negotiate with phone and internet service providers.

PHONES AND INTERNET

Your current phone and internet service providers may not be able to support you in your new space. We either migrate your service or, if you need to find a new provider, help you get the lowest rates and offer support during installation to ensure a strong and secure WiFi architecture.

SERVERS

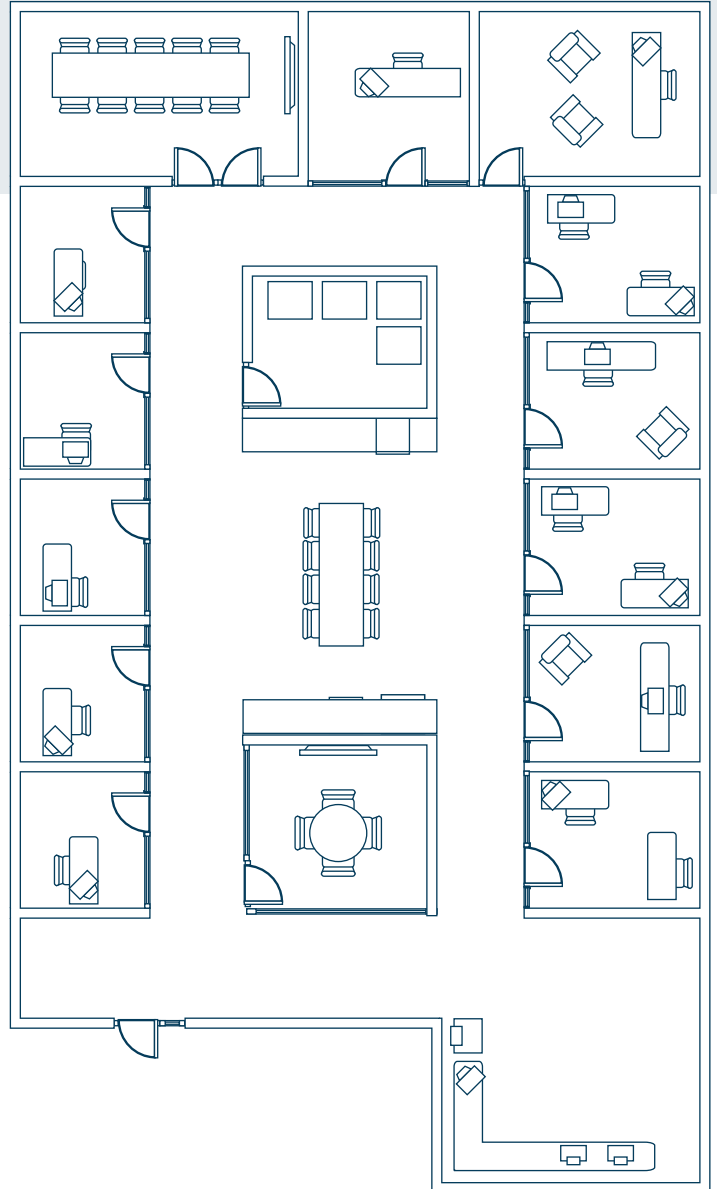

We work with your architect or building manager to ensure that your server room has adequate space and air conditioning, then set up your server room and install your hardware, including uninterruptable power supplies, switches, and firewalls.

COMPUTERS

We coordinate with your movers to connect staff computers in the new location, test every computer, and remedy any issues so your staff can get to work.

CONFERENCE ROOMS

We help you improve your meeting spaces with innovative, user-friendly audio/visual solutions that will turn any room into a video collaboration space.

NETWORK

We coordinate with our trusted networking partner to set up your network infrastructure and install cabling.

POST-MOVE

After the move, we provide concierge-level support to resolve any issues and coordinate recycling for old equipment.