CASE STUDY

International Health and Wellness Coach Training

A world-class international health and wellness training institute, that provides people with unique, life-changing educational experiences. With over 10,000 clients and students from 30 countries in the past 10 years, the company is pioneering a new generation of health coaches who are changing the consciousness of the planet. Their curriculum is based on cutting-edge psychology, brain science, intuitive listening, habit change, and healthy lifestyle design.

The company is in service of creating leaders in the arts, science, and business of health coaching.

Challenge

After much research, the company noticed they weren't receiving the steady climb in registrants they were expecting. What they found were many of their agents spent the majority of their time chasing down leads, with 7-10 calls on their list unable to receive an answer. And when their prospective clients used the contact centre only, there were lower than expected contact rates. Any new leads the team received had low response rates when contacted.

They wanted to increase their output of prospective coaches but required help from an expert in marketing technology.

Solution

The company required a platform that would help engage their leads and nurture them, passing them on to the contact center via a warm transfer call (transferring the SMS responder directly to an agent).

After researching the industry, they chose Meera, which engages leads with its conversational artificial intelligence (AI) platform through SMS, allowing people to schedule or be directly transferred to an agent at their convenience.

This was perfect for any prospective coach with a busy lifestyle who didn't want to be bombarded by untimely calls.
