Me and most of our BI team are long-term users of Data Academy, both at this trust and at previous trusts, so we're clearly advocates of its capability.

Data Academy has incredible power that makes it achievable to develop and maintain data warehouses with the limited resources available within a trust. The ability for us to build fully automated solutions that are really fit for purpose provides an essential development platform for us at Liverpool Women's.

Insource has the strapline of 'Be Data Confident' – and with their solution platforms and development platforms this is certainly what can be achieved. Building and implementing robust data management solutions it not a quick task, but with the Insource products we at Liverpool Women's are well on the way to achieving that goal.
