

Company History

2006 - 2008 Freudenberg acquires several companies that provide sealing solutions to the oil & gas industry: Imperial Rubber (Nisku, Canada), Petroleum Elastomers and Tetralene (Houston, Texas), TBS seals (Aberdeen, UK), Vestpak (Norway).    	2011 The Group establishes Freudenberg Oil & Gas as a separate business unit, focused on sealing solutions for the upstream energy industry. Headquartered in Houston, Freudenberg Oil & Gas debuts with locations in Canada, UK, Norway, Germany, Kazakhstan. Freudenberg acquires Offshore Seals in Singapore, establishing a strong presence in Asia. 	2012 January Freudenberg Oil & Gas opens 14,000 square foot Materials Development & Product Testing Lab in Houston, Texas USA.	2012 June Freudenberg Oil & Gas opens a sales & service facility in Dubai, UAE.	2012 August Freudenberg Oil & Gas acquires Scott-Matrix, Ltd a specialist in highly engineered rubber seals (Newcastle, UK), and the Flexlok MTM technology from Caledyne, Ltd (Aberdeen, UK). 	2013 January Freudenberg acquires Vector Technology Group, major single source supplier of high integrity, metal to metal sealing solutions for onshore, offshore and subsea applications. 	2013 September The business unit rebrands as Freudenberg Oil & Gas Technologies to better reflect the technical solution and material development capabilities that are a core part of the company's focus and business strategy to serve the upstream oil and gas industry.	2015 June Freudenberg Oil & Gas Technologies acquires BlueSky Process Solutions, Ltd (Stoney Creek, Canada), a designer of differentiated metal to metal sealing products including proprietary ball joints, and Essential Product Services, Inc. (Conroe, USA), a sealing technology consulting and solutions provider. In July the Freudenberg Group updates the global brand and logo, including the tagline 'Innovating Together', emphasizing the Group's long history of innovative solutions.
		