

Lead Boldly

Building strategies to strive in relentless change

There's growing evidence that increasing female representation in leadership and board positions is critical to having better run, more effective companies that can respond to the demands of an ever-changing business environment.

Yet despite the evidence and despite the activities organisations are implementing to address the known issues affecting women's advancements, progress has been too slow.

Our Lead Boldly program is designed to support and further the careers of women looking to increase their leadership capability today.

Combining the findings of biology, psychology and anthropology, this whip-smart, beautifully-designed leadership program is a refreshing alternative to the tired offerings that are limply served up to ambitious women desperate to make their mark.

Identity

By clarifying your values, positioning and role, set a bold declaration for your leadership.

Decisions

Challenging biases and beliefs, learn about the most effective strategies to make key business decisions.

Conversations

Learn about the skill that underpins all great leadership – the ability to achieve results from key conversations.