Why Minnwest?

Simply put, you are our first priority. We're a family-owned banking operation that's big enough to get large deals done and small enough to truly listen and work with you as you work toward your individual goals. We have firsthand knowledge of the challenges and risks you face, and most importantly, we're building lasting relationships with doers like you every day. We don't just say our customers come first, we live and breathe it. That's our commitment to you.

COMMITTED TO RELATIONSHIPS FIRST

At Minnwest Bank, we build relationships with doers—people who begin with a dream and are committed to turning it into reality. We believe relationships develop between people who are receptive, responsive, and have shared values. We know relationships don't come easy—they start with handshakes, continue with conversations, and grow into shared commitments that withstand the test of time.

HONORING OUR ROOTS

Like many of our customers, Minnwest is a family-owned business that keeps its long-term commitments. We founded Minnwest Bank during the 1987 farm crisis because we recognized how important community banks are to thriving communities. Since that time, we've steadfastly served and supported our communities through good times and bad.

As our customer footprint grew and expanded into urban areas, so did we. Today, Minnwest is one of Minnesota's largest banks—with 31 locations and more than $2 billion in assets—and one of Minnesota's ag lending leaders.

COMMUNITY STATEMENT

Minnwest Bank is dedicated to community involvement and customer service. Our interest in serving our customers and communities was inspired by our founder, M.D. (Pete) McVay, and has served us well for more than three decades. Today, our founder's vision is shared by more than 370 employees who are dedicated to building and sustaining our local communities.

Our community support comes in a variety of forms and includes volunteer work, philanthropic giving, corporate programs, and educational events with a focus on the underserved, underprivileged, child welfare and child education.

M.D. (PETE) MCVAY COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD RECIPIENT

Michelle Doeling

Retail Branch Manager

The Pete McVay Community Service Award recognizes an employee for his/her volunteer contributions and commitment to community service.

Michelle Doeling is a busy wife and mother of four, but she makes the time to volunteer with several local community organizations. Michelle volunteers at her church, teaching children in Bible and Sunday school. She also spends time each month counting the offering for her church.

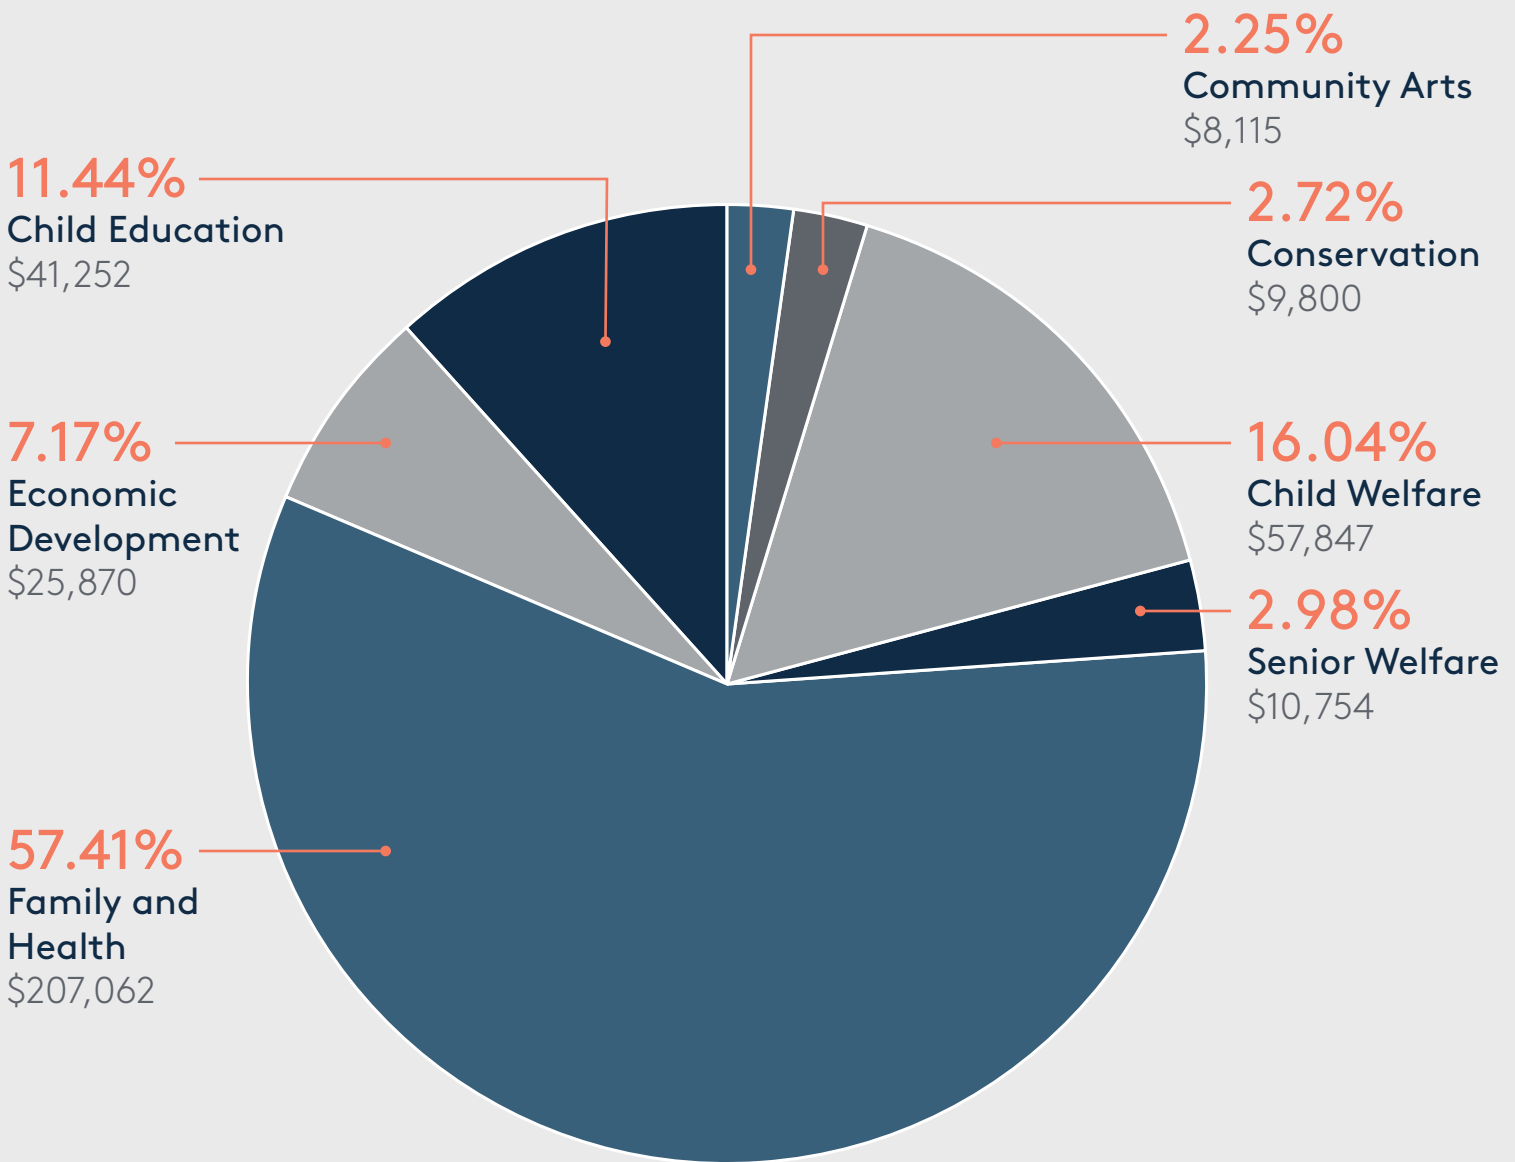

Michelle's biggest role in volunteering is with the United Way of Southwest Minnesota. During the week, she serves as the Resource Development Chair. In this role, Michelle is responsible for leading the annual campaign efforts (which is no small feat!). In addition to her board responsibilities, she volunteers for special events such as Stuff the Bus, Food for Kids, Taste of Italy Spaghetti Dinner, Power of the Purse, and has recently helped review United Way grant applications and interview applicants. This year, she also helped cook and serve dinner, for those in need, at Esther's Kitchen.

During the school year, Michelle spends time in the classroom as a volunteer for Junior Achievement. She teaches children in two separate classrooms about what it means to be a responsible citizen, consumer and employee.

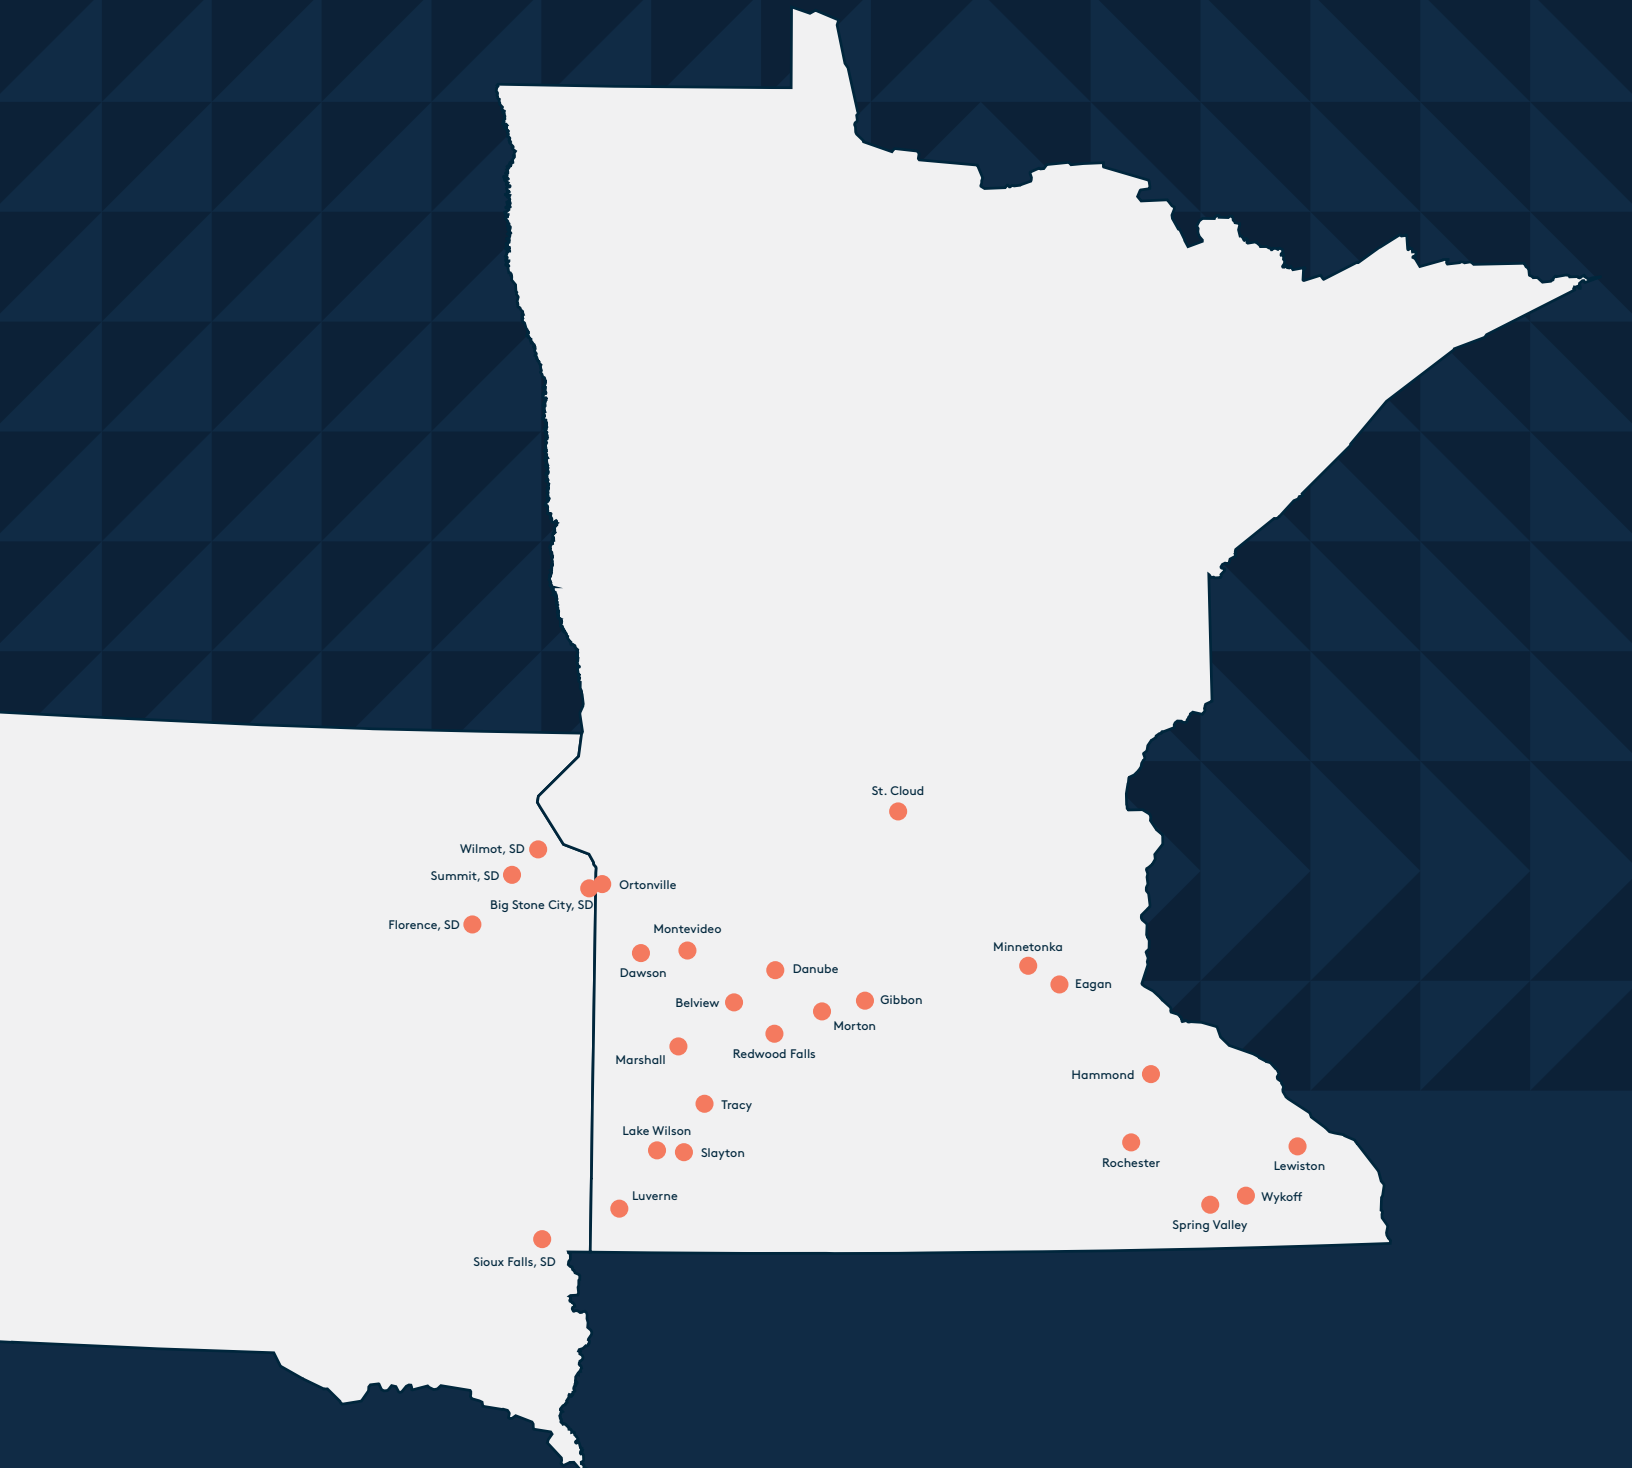

Michelle is also a part of Marshall Area Young Professionals, Marshall's local young professional networking group. Michelle is currently serving on the steering committee, where she helps determine the focus and direction of the group as well as planning each month's event, speaker, meal, etc.

Michelle does all of this (and more) without hesitation and with a smile. She is the Marshall branch's biggest encourager when it comes to getting out into the community and volunteering our time to the cause that is closest to our hearts. Michelle is dedicated to putting others first. She is a team player, committed to serving her community to make a difference and get things done!
