

eCIVIS CASE STUDY: CITY & COUNTY OF DENVER COLORADO

10
MONTH
COMPLETION
ON BUDGET

Denver is officially the largest City and County in Colorado, and is the most populous municipality, with an estimated population of 716,492 in 2018. Denver recognized the need for better management of their entire grant process from research to post-award functions and monitoring via automations and enhanced management reporting (e.g., win rates, grants by agency, grants by funder, etc.).

Challenge

The goal was to procure a modern grants management solution (GMS) that would allow Denver's agencies to research and select grants and initiate Denver's pre-award process workflow. A new GMS would have to allow for the transfer of information into the existing budget module and track spending, improve compliance with Fiscal Accountability Rule (FAR), and maximize grant funding with more effective and user-friendly grant research tools.

- Integrate with PeopleSoft/Workday
- Monitor via automations and enhanced management reporting
- Collaboration with Denver's internal project team, its PeopleSoft/ Workday teams, and Public Consulting Group

Solution

Denver solicited for and purchased a modern GMS that allows them to research and select grants and to initiate Denver's pre-award process workflow. The work continues on new features and functionality to implement the agency's evolving grant management strategy and practices.

- Better management of the entire grant process
- Funds no longer spent on wasteful processes
- "...delivering services quicker and more efficiently," stated by Denver Mayor Hancock

Result

With the efficient and effective pursuit of Federal resources, Denver is now able to take their existing resources and do much more. Rather than spending money on wasteful processes, they invest valuable resources on delivering services faster to the people that need them the most.

- Improved transparency
- Reduced administrative burden
- Streamlined process and procedures across the City
- Completed implementation in less than 10 months and within budget
- Denver's adopted practices are embraced by local governments across the country

eCIVIS

With eCivis, we are not spending money on wasteful processes anymore. We are spending money delivering services quicker and more efficiently to the people that need them the most."
