

It's not too late to maximize your MIPS score for 2019.

Introducing MIPS Max

Engaging patients in their healthcare has never been more important as providers shift from fee-for-service payments to a value-based reimbursement model. But many clinicians lack the time and resources required to manage individual patient outreach for the hundreds of potential MIPS measures that can affect their final score. Since scores are now available to the public, MIPS can also directly influence a patient's decision on where to seek care. With a direct impact on reimbursement rates and brand reputation, it's imperative clinicians maximize their score to protect needed revenue.
