A person's hands are shown holding a perfume bottle. The background is dark and moody, with the hands and bottle being the primary focus. The lighting is soft, highlighting the contours of the hands and the glass of the bottle.

Viveur is privileged to work with one of the most rare classes of expertise, an independent Master Perfumer.

“Master Perfumers make it their personal quest to develop a fragrance creation which is beautiful and harmonic: almost as part of a personal mission.

In this way perfumers become true ambassadors of the world: representing the hundreds of people who have painstakingly cultivated fields, gathered thousands of flowers and plants to extract into absolutes or distil into precious essential oils for perfume is a labour of love which expresses the very essence of civilization.

When one makes this consideration, the philosophy behind fine fragrance creation grows increasingly more important, for a bottle of perfume is a precious, living and expressive medium that contains the world”
